

(ii) White Border Designs with original value tablets

Despite being widely praised for their design, problems in getting sufficient phosphor signal due to the dark colour backgrounds forced Royal Mail to replace the existing full bleed designs for all four regions with stamps in the same design but with white borders surrounding the stamps in October 2003. The white surrounds gave a better phosphor response and met Royal Mail's operational standards. Initial sheet values were printed by De La Rue at Byfleet (and then later at Dunstable) on the cream gum Tullis Russell paper, which has no fluorescence in the surface coating, although using up old stocks of paper did mean that similar variations as seen in the national definitives also appeared on some subsequent printings. Sheets showed similar markings to those found on national definitives apart from the initial Northern Ireland values, which were printed in litho and have no lower-right corner control block nor jubilee bars. In 2007 Northern Ireland issues changed to being printed in gravure, standardising the production processes for sheet stamps, although some from booklet and miniature sheet printings for all four regions continued to be litho printed. With rate change issues in April 2008, stamps from three of the regions (with the exception of England) were printed two values up on the same primary sheet in order to save costs. The result was that only no dot cylinders are known for all values. Details of which values were printed with which can be found in the cylinder and date block sections. English issues continued to be printed in the traditional double pane format.

From 2011 the sheet printings of all values reverted to litho by Cartor. The sheet format changed to compact single pane sheets of 50 (10 x 5) for 2nd and 1st values, printed 4 up on a printing plate, and sheets of 25 (5 x 5) for the overseas rates, printed 8 up. The uncut printer's sheet (primary sheet) often comprised more than one value or country issue. Printing was simplified to use the same four process colours – cyan, magenta, yellow and black – to print the main colour, rather than using 'special' colours making multiple designs on the same sheet possible. Where necessary this was complemented by a plate for silver (and gold for the Wales Prince of Wales feathers design) where appropriate and then one for the phosphor. However, when Cartor reprinted Scotland & England 2nd and 1st values in 2016, they dropped the silver plate for the Queen's head, presumably as an economy measure, instead making it up out of a tint of black.

The sheet markings markings for these compact sheets also changed. A matrix of boxes was printed in black in the bottom sheet margin underneath the lower-left corner stamp, which indicated from where on the primary the sheet in question emanated by the application of a dot in one of the boxes. Some boxes were also 'greyed-out', indicating that part of the primary sheet contained a different value stamp or was from another country. The printing date was standardised to appear alongside row 3 in the lower-right margin and was printed from a black litho plate, possibly the one indicated in the plate numbers but conceivably a separate plate made up just for this purpose. An FSC compliance logo also appears in the side sheet margin alongside the lower-right corner stamp.

E Values. In May 2004 Royal Mail dropped the "E" NVI value in favour of a denominated 40p issue and subsequently the current rate value for 1st step European mail. They claimed that this was because some postal users were confusing the "E" with "Euros", but other, less charitable, commentators point out that it is more likely that they wished to push the use of the more expensive Universal Europe stamp, which covered the weight band for the first two steps, in its place as the NVI for this destination.

Miniature sheets. Royal Mail issued its first miniature sheet containing Emblem stamps to mark the opening of the new Scottish Parliament building in 2004. Since then there have been an increasing number of miniature sheets released, most of which contain stamps from just one region and these are listed in the relevant country sections. However, a series of sheets issued to commemorate significant battles in the First World War, contained stamps from all 4 regions. These sheets are listed under a multiple countries section and have a catalogue number beginning with "R" (for Regionals). The individual stamps that emanate from these sheets are still listed in their normal country designations.

Narrower Vignetted Area. Many Emblem issues from miniature sheets with 2 phosphor bands show a narrower area of vignetting than seen on sheet or booklet issues. Of the 6.5mm width of a single side phosphor band, normally 4.5mm is solid and 2mm is vignetted towards the centre. However on the affected miniature sheet issues bands have a 5mm solid area and 1.5mm vignetted section.

Self-adhesives. Starting in May 2007, Royal Mail started to issue a series of “Smilers” sheets, one for each region. These sheets used the current 1st class design for each value, alongside a rectangular label – on generic sheets these contained a photograph of a notable landmark; on personalised sheets they contained an image that was supplied by the purchaser. The stamps are printed in sheets of 20, using a self-adhesive gum. Apart from being self-adhesive, the initial stamps were also missing the now standard ellipse on each vertical edge. However, 1st values from all four regions in the Glorious UK sheet, issued in September 2008, reintroduced the ellipse. Self-adhesives are commonly collected cut from sheets on their backing paper as a rectangular piece containing the stamp and one label. Details of full sheets can be found in section J on page 10B/30.

Byfleet & Dunstable. De La Rue stamps were printed at Byfleet up until December 2004. All subsequent issues were printed at Dunstable. The date of issue, however, is misleading in determining where stamps were printed as in most cases there is a lag of months or even years before some printings appeared in post offices. Where it is not obvious where a sheet printing has been made we include the letter B(yfleet) or D(unstable) in brackets after the cylinder number. If printed in both locations we list both letters (BD).

Type 1
Sharper features

Type 2
Poorly defined

Type 1 and 2 Heads. Around the middle of 2005 Royal Mail became dissatisfied with the Queen's head that De La Rue were using on all current England values. The silver printed head was less well defined and lacking in crispness when compared with initial England full bleed stamps and on values from other regions. They therefore took the decision to replace the cylinder that printed the silver with one restoring the head to its originally intended form.

The heads on the 1st and 2nd values were replaced at the next reprints – 17/08/05 for the 1st and 07/11/05 for the 2nd – but, as this happened in the middle of a tariff's life cycle, the 42p and 68p values were not reprinted. Rather peculiarly, when the new tariffs were introduced in the Spring of 2006, it seems that this instruction was forgotten as initial printings of the new rates – 44p and 72p – appeared with the old degraded head. However, it would seem that Royal Mail reminded De La Rue of the problem and both values used the new head when next reprinted – 4/4/06 for the 44p (which resulted in a new cylinder combination D1 D2) and 07/07/06 for the 72p (which, inexplicably, didn't have the silver cylinder renumbered). All England stamps printed by De La Rue since this time used the original, sharper featured version. Other printers are not affected by these variations.

These changes are easily visible to the naked eye – the two types are illustrated above – and are best identified by looking at the ribbons on the back of the Queen's hair, which are much better defined and are clearly separate on the sharper version and the base of the bust which is broader and less rounded. The two different heads are known as Type 1 for the sharper version and Type 2 for the less well defined version. On the face of it, this may seem a little confusing as Type 2 heads were replaced by Type 1. However, as the Type 1 head was in use on earlier full bleed issues and on other then current regionals, this is the logical way to name them.

Celebrating England Miniature Sheet

One of a series of miniature sheets from each of the four regions, issued to coincide with the respective Saints days. The sheet contains two Emblem style 1st regionals, one the current style and the other depicting the St. George's Cross (See chapter 10C for stamp listing), plus two 72p panoramic format commemoratives, one depicting Westminster Bridge and the Houses of Parliament, the other a stylised image of St. George, slaying the dragon. The sheet measures 123 x 70mm approximately.

Wembley Stadium Miniature Sheet

The sheet was issued to mark the opening of the rebuilt Wembley Stadium, to coincide with it's first official match, the 2007 F.A.Cup Final. Due to delays in the construction of the stadium, the sheet was actually delayed for a year, having originally been scheduled for release in May 2006. The sheet contains two copies each of the Emblem 2nd

CB and 78p 2B stamps, separated by a label depicting the stadium logo. In addition the sheet contains a revised version of the commemorative version of the Lion and Shield of St. George design as originally issued to coincide with the 2002 World Cup, but with the World Cup inscription removed. The sheet measures 113 x 103mm approximately.

Celebrating Scotland Miniature Sheet

One of a series of miniature sheets from each of the four regions, issued to coincide with the respective Saints days. The sheet contains two Emblem style 1st regionals, one the current style and the other depicting the Saltire (See chapter 10C for stamp listing), plus two 72p panoramic format commemoratives, one depicting Edinburgh Castle, the other a stylised image of St. Andrew, fishing. The sheet measures 124 x 71mm approximately.

* A single miniature sheet was found that was missing the silver printing, on the Scotland 78p omitting the Queen's head and value. Unfortunately, however, by the time the finder noticed his momentous discovery, he had already split the sheet down and used the English and Welsh 78p values on mail to Asia. This left just the Poppy 1st and Scotland 78p missing the silver – the Northern Ireland 78p, although still present, does not have any silver printing.

Robert Burns Miniature Sheet

This sheet was issued to mark the 250th Anniversary of the Birth of Robert Burns, the famous Scottish Bard. The sheet features all four Emblem regionals that were then current. It also includes two commemorative stamps, unique to the sheet, one a line from one of his most famous poems in a typographically inspired design similar to that used for the 1996 Death Bicentenary issue, the other on a contemporary portrait of the man. The sheet measures 146 x 74mm approximately.

* This affects only the right hand copy of the two in the miniature sheet.

 The shade of this stamp is noticeably more silvery and ess yellow than before as the second cylinder colour is now black instead of yellow.

 The phosphor is virtually invible when examined with the naked eye and held up to the light. However, under UV light the bands show a bright fluorescent reaction and normal afterglow.

Celebrating Wales Miniature Sheet

One of a series of miniature sheets from each of the four regions, issued to coincide with the respective Saints days. The sheet contains two Emblem style 1st regionals, one the current style and the other depicting the Welsh Flag (See chapter 10C for stamp listing), plus two 81p panoramic format commemoratives, one depicting the Welsh Assembly building in Cardiff Bay, the other a stylised image of St. David, with a dove on his shoulder. The sheet measures 123 x 70mm approximately.

* By this time, redrawn value tablets had been introduced, but somewhat bizarrely, the 30/01/19 & 10/08/20 printings reverted to the original value tablet, for no obvious reason.

(I) Multiple Regions

Miniature Sheets containing stamps from two or more of the Regions

Lest We Forget Miniature Sheets

This is a series of three miniature sheets marking the 90th Anniversary of significant events from the First World War – 2006 Battle of the Somme, 2007 Battle of Passchendaele & 2008 Armistice. Each sheet contains the then current overseas rate 1st step value, along with a specially designed commemorative 1st stamp on a Poppy theme. Although all sheets have been printed by De La Rue, the initial sheet was printed in gravure whilst the latter two sheets were both litho printed. Sheets each measure 124 x 70mm approximately. Details of the stamps contained in these sheets can be found under their entries in the individual regions.

(J) Smilers Sheets

In 2007 Royal Mail expanded their already established range of Smilers sheet to include Regional stamps for the first time. Smilers are a premium priced product, originally intended to enhance business and social mail with a unique photograph or image on a label that sits alongside a stamp to which it is attached, chosen by the sponsor. This is the closest thing possible to a totally personalised stamp without actually being one. Images are supplied to Royal Mail in the form of a photograph or a digital file, which is then inkjet printed onto a series of blank labels adjoining stamps in specially prepared sheets of 10 or 20 stamps, usually A4 (297 x 210mm) in format. However, to meet philatelic demands, the same sheets are also available to order with specially pre-printed labels, available at a significantly reduced price. These sheets are referred to as generic sheets by Royal Mail, whereas the personalised versions are commonly known as customised or photo-label sheets.

There are three distinct ranges in the Smilers product portfolio:

Retail Smilers, the most common which includes standard customised and generic sheets, usually in sheets of 20 stamps and labels (although some customised issues are known in sheets of 10, A5 –148 x 210mm – in size). Not every generic sheet has a matching customised sheet, and there are some issues, where multiple stamp designs are featured on a generic sheet, which are then available as single design customised sheets, frequently with a sheet background unique to each sheet. These types are referred to as RG for retail generic sheets or RC for retail customised sheets.

Business Customised sheets bear 10 stamps and labels and are only available to order in significant quantities. Here the sheets have a totally customised design both on the labels and the sheet background, but use existing stamps that can be chosen from a range. Common usage is by stamp dealers or exhibitions wishing to create a commemorative product or for business wishing to promote a specific product or anniversary.

Commemorative sheets of 10, produced solely by Royal Mail. These are similar to Business Customised sheets but mark an anniversary or event that Royal Mail have considered not quite sufficiently important to merit an entire stamp issue, but which they still wish to mark in some other way. These only exist as pre-printed sheets, so no customisation is possible. They are commonly limited editions and supplied in a presentation pack style folder, and as such are sold at a significant premium over even a normal generic Smilers sheet. These types are referred to as CS for Commemorative Sheets.

Commemorative Sheet

To date only Retail Smilers and Commemorative Sheets are known with Regional Emblem stamps, all of which are self-adhesive in format and have been printed in litho by Cartor. Royal Mail ceased their production of customised sheets in 2019, but continue to offer a limited range of generic and commemorative sheets.
